

Kluger, Kaplan, Silverman, Katzen & Levine Adds Two Attorneys

MIAMI, FL—Amidst the uptick in business and wealth migration to the state, South Florida’s preeminent litigation firm, Kluger, Kaplan, Silverman, Katzen & Levine P.L., continues to grow with the addition of two new associates: Kalpesh “Kal” Mehta, a commercial litigator, and Kody Trespalacios, a family law attorney.

Mr. Mehta focuses his practice on complex commercial, real estate, and probate litigation, with an emphasis on contractual and business disputes. Serving a diverse client base, he represents and advises clients in state and all federal courts across Florida on matters involving, among other things, claims for breach of contract and business torts, including fraud.

Mr. Trespalacios was an associate at a boutique family law firm in Miami prior to joining Kluger Kaplan. He worked on a variety of complex family law matters, including prenuptial and postnuptial agreements, paternity issues, and high net worth dissolutions of marriage involving equitable distribution, business valuations, alimony, child support, and parental responsibility and timesharing.
